THE EVENING STAR. WASHINGTON:

MONDAY November 2, 1895. CROSBY S. NOYES. Editor

The Evening Star has a regular, permanent bora fide daily circulation more than treble that of any other daily paper published in Washington, and equal to that of all the other daily papers here added together.

In the elections to take place to-morrow that of New York is the most important. Within a week or two the democratic prospects have been steadily improving, and but for the danger of loss to the general ticket by vote-trading in New York city for local officers a good deal of confidence would be felt in the election of Hill. The fear that is felt of loss in this way and the vigorous efforts being made to stop off vote trading is shown by a double-leaded article at the head of the editorial columns of the New York Sun to-day, in which it is set forth that the election of Hill can be blocked only "by fraud and treachery in the printing, bunching and distributing of ballots." The Sun then proceeds to crack the whip at the suspected parties in the following threatening style:

"Among the democratic politicians of this city, those who have at once sufficient ability, experience and pecuniary resources to fram and carry out a plot for robbing Mr. Hill of his legitimate majority, can be counted on the fin-gers of one hand. It will be easy, therefore, to fix the responsibility for an organized betrayal of the popular will where it belongs. The men who have the power and who are suspected of a wish to do this thing are known. They are not men who can afford to provoke at this juncture an outburst of vindictive wrath from the peo ple of this city. They may need at any moment all the moral and material resources which they may yet retain in this community for the work of self-defense. They had better let the ballot box alone. The democratic voters are in earnest in this business, and their trusted representatives in the public press intend to see to it that they are not cheated with impunity. Every ballot run out from the boxes of the County democracy, of Tammany Hall and Irving Hall must bear the name of David B. Hill for governor. Every demo-cratic voter will look for that name on his ballot before he casts it, and if he does not find it there he will want to know the reason why. He shall not have to wait long for the information off! Call off your dogs! This is an unhealthy year for fraud."

In Massachusetts Gov. Robinson will be reelected it is estimated by a plurality in the neighborhood of 20,000, but the democrats expect to make important gains in the legislature. In Pennsylvania the prospect is that Quay, republican, will be elected state treasurer by a fair majority, and that Rowan, republican, will be elected sheriff of Philadelphia county, though both are opposed by the independents. In Maryland the Gorman or "regular" democratic ticket will undoubtedly win as foreshadowed by the test vote in the Baltimore municipal election. In Virginia both parties express confidence, but to impartial observers it seems that the democrats have the most reliable claim to the election of both governor and legislature.

The Atlanta Constitution cites, as a proof of the brilliancy of Robert Toombs' wit, that once, when Randolph Tucker corrected a false report of his own death, Toombs remarked that Tucker was such a liar that he didn't know whether to believe the correction or not. The Springfield Republican, commenting on this joke, says it is old as the celebrated chronicles of Schwartzenbrod in the dark ages. It is always hazardous to attempt to say just how old a good joke is. This one is certainly very aged. In a collection of jests compiled by an Alexandrian Greek named Hierocles, who dourished about the middle of the fifth century, it occurs in the following setting: "A pedant meeting another said: 'Why, I heard you were dead! 'But you may rest assured I am still alive.' 'Well, I don't know about that: the man who told me was much worthier of belief than you." It is highly probable, too, that Hierocles merely gathered up the floating jests as they came down the stream of tradition, so that Mr. Toombs' brilliant retort is very likely as old as the tower of Babel.

The Associated Press is determined not to show partisan partiality, and so has sent the same inimitable pen to describe the closing scenes at M'Clellan's home which was employed to report the last days at Mt. McGregor. It is needless to say that the writer's work is truly beautiful. Here, for instance, is an elegant extract, which reads like old times:

"Very solemn, indeed, was the mountain scene yesterday. The storm of the previous day had passed away. Athwart the sky were long swaths of clouds, here light and fleecy, there of a dun color. The breeze swept through the trees and sighed among their talling leaves. Down the hillside stretched beeches, pines and larches, some bare of foliage, but nearly all pro senting a splendid picture of color, orange and purple and gold and emerald and russet tints mingled in rich combinations that challenged the painter's brush. In the midst of it all lay the dead warrior. His eye had often taken in

It has become such a proverb that the ma chinery of the law breaks down when big rascals are caught, that the action of the New York courts in the Grant & Ward bank frauds should in fairness be quoted in opposition to the stock sneer. When the crimes became known it was commonly remarked that the wrong-doers were too rich and aristocratic to be punished. But the event has proved such a cynical view to be false. Ward and Fish, the chief culprits, are convicted felons, and Warner is also on the direct road to the peni tentiary.

We are told that American "influence" is on the gain in Corea, at the expense of German, because Mr. Denny has succeeded a Teuton as one of the councillors of the court and because the seeds sent from the Agricultural department have successfully sprouted on the American farm. This is, of course, gratifying news, and the eagle ought to scream. But it would be difficult to say wherein lies the dignity or advantage of taking Corea under our wing. It is one of the most barren, benighted and insignificant countries in the world, and the less we have to do with it, diplomatically, the better.

Mr. Eaton has had the pleasure of reading his official obituaries, and now enters on a new lease of life as a civil service commissioner. The President is not disposed to blunder through haste in re-organizing the commission. and has, therefore, requested Mr. Eaton to stay awhile longer.

Contributions to the Grant-Johnson incident are still dropping in, and the general tenor of the evidence supports Mr. Depew in his original statements. The latest testimony is from ex-Senator Chaffee, who reports a conversation he had with Granton the subject, in which Grant told him, he says, substantially the story which Depew has given to the public.

effort on the part of the salesmen. The original estimate of the cost of the Panama canal was $120,000,000. That large amount of money was raised and has been nearly all expended, without any result to speak of. Hence M. de Lesseps now, naturally A Splendid Stock Or Dre wants another $120,000,000, but, just as naturally, he finds it much harder to raise than

We are now showing one of the most elegant assortments of FINE FRENCH DRESS GOODS that we have ever had the pleasure of placing before the public, and, as many of them are of our own ordering, the same styles will not be found elsewhere in this market! We invite particular attention to our elegant stock of silks and VELVETS, comprising some of the handsomest and newest designs imported this season. All the new shades in FAILLE FRANCAISE and GROS DE LONDRES in evening and street colors. RICH BLACK SILKS in all qualities, comprising fininet's, Bonnet's, Tapissear and other celebrated makes of French Goods.

ELEGANT BROCADE VELVETS in Black and Colors, which we are offering unusually cheap for the quality. We also have on hand one of the largest stocks of WOOLEN DEESS GOODS in fine qualities that we have ever shown, and the most complete astortment of FINE MOURNING GOODS to be found in this market, all of which we marked in plain figures at the lowest market prices. Mr. Ferdinand Ward begins honest labor today in fitting rough eastings in the stove-mounting shop in Sing Sing prison. The state gets 56 cents a day for his work, out of which it feeds, clothes, and keeps him, especially keeps him.

Cooler and fair weather is predicted for tomorrow, but for which party the future is fair and for which it is to be a cold day the signal office does not venture to prophesy.

ABOUT TO BUY.

When a man is about to buy his Clothing it is first necessary that he should have confidence in the house he deals with. He should then satisfy himself with regard to the prices, after which he has but to exercise his judgment in making his selections. Buyers who visit George Spransy are never disappointed concerning these important points. Perfect Honesty and Fair Dealing is his inflexible business principle; prices lower than other houses always the rule, and when it comes to a question of taste their customers will find Suits ranging from $12 to $30, and Overcoats from $6 to $30. Add to these points the fact that we are the only house in the city giving a legal written guarantee, make it a safe place to buy.
